

LICENSE AGREEMENT

This document is a summary of the rules governing the dissemination of the "Flash Code" by the ASCI/Alliances Center for Astrophysical Thermonuclear Flashes (Flash Center) to users outside the Center, and constitutes the License Agreement for users of the Flash Code. Users are responsible for following all of the applicable rules described below.

1. Public release. We expect to be able to publically release versions of the Flash Code via the Center's web site, and expect to release any given version of the Flash Code within a year of its formal deposition in the Center's code archive.

2. Decision process. At present, release of the Flash Code to users not located at the University of Chicago or at Argonne National Laboratory is governed solely by the Director and the Management Committee; decisions related to public release of the Flash Code will be made in the same manner.

3. Distribution rights. The Flash Code, and any part of this code, can only be released and distributed by the Flash Center; individual users of the code are not free to re-distribute the Flash Code, or any of its components, outside the Center. While the Flash Code is currently not export-controlled, we are nevertheless required to insure that we identify all users of this code. For this reason, we require that all users sign a hardcopy version of this License Agreement, and send it to the Flash Center. Distribution of the Flash Code can only occur once a signed License Agreement is received by us.

4. Modifications and Acknowledgments. You may make modifications to the Flash Code, and we encourage you to send such modifications to the Center; as noted in 3. above, you are not free to distribute this code to others. As resources permit, we plan to incorporate such modifications in subsequent releases of the Flash Code, and we will acknowledge your contributions. Note that modifications that do not make it into an officially-released version of Flash will not be supported by us.

If you do modify a copy or copies of the Flash Code or any portion of it, thus forming a work based on the Flash Code, you must meet the following conditions:

a) The software must carry prominent notices stating that you changed specified portions of the Flash Code. This will assist us in clearly identifying the portions of the code that you have contributed.

b) The software must display the following acknowledgement:
"This product includes software developed by and/or derived from the ASCI/Alliances Center for Astrophysical Thermonuclear Flashes (<http://flash.uchicago.edu>) to which the U.S. Government retains certain rights."

c) The present code header section, describing the origins of the Flash Code and of its components, must remain intact, and should be included in all modified versions of the code.

Furthermore, all publications resulting from the use of the Flash Code, or any modified version or portion of the Flash Code, must acknowledge the ASCI/Alliances Center for Astrophysical Thermonuclear Flashes; addition of the following text to the paper acknowledgments will be sufficient:

"The software used in this work was in part developed by the DOE-supported ASCI/Alliances Center for Astrophysical Thermonuclear Flashes at the University of Chicago."

The code header provides information on various software that has been utilized as part of the Flash development effort (such as the AMR), as well as updated information on the key scientific journal references for the Flash Code. We request that such references be included in the reference section of any papers based on the Flash Code.

5. Commercial use. All users interested in commercial use of the Flash Code must obtain prior written approval from the director of the Flash Center. Use of the Flash Code, or any modification thereof, for commercial purposes is not permitted otherwise.

6. Bug fixes and new releases. As part of the code dissemination process, the Center has set up and will maintain as part of its web site mechanisms for announcing new code releases, for collecting requests for code use, and for collecting and disseminating frequently asked questions (FAQs). We do not plan at present to provide direct technical support; but will provide a bug report facility.

7. Use feedback. The Center requests that all users of the Flash Code notify the Center about all publications that incorporate results based on the use of this code, or modified versions of this code or its components. All such information can be posted on the Center's web site, at <http://flash.uchicago.edu>.

8. The Flash Code was prepared, in part, as an account of work sponsored by an agency of the United States Government. Neither the United States, nor the University of Chicago, nor any contributors to the Flash Code, nor any of their employees, makes any warranty, express or implied, or assumes any legal liability or responsibility for the accuracy, completeness, or usefulness of any information, apparatus, product, or process disclosed, or represents that its use would not infringe privately owned rights.

9. IN NO EVENT WILL THE UNITED STATES, THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO OR ANY CONTRIBUTORS TO THE FLASH CODE BE LIABLE FOR ANY DAMAGES, INCLUDING DIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES RESULTING FROM EXERCISE OF THIS LICENSE AGREEMENT OR THE USE OF THE SOFTWARE.

I agree to the terms outlined in this license agreement.

Signature

Print name here

--

Date

